DC Cancer Consortium Transportation Guide

Every day the DC Cancer Consortium (DCCC) — a collaboration of more than 50 public and private organizations in the District of Columbia — works to reduce cancer incidence and mortality, reduce racial and ethnic disparities in cancer treatment, and improve the quality of life for people with cancer.

In September, 2007, we published the DC Cancer Consortium Resource Guide, for cancer survivors, caregivers and health care professionals. It provides useful information on many topics, including transportation. This booklet is an expanded version of the area's transportation resources.

This Transportation Guide includes public transportation providers, non-profit organizations, and Government agencies. The DC Cancer Consortium does not endorse or guarantee the quality of any listed provider. If users of these services have any questions about the providers, we suggest that you request further information and references from them.
